Apr. 21, 1736, Belfast, Ireland, who was living out a royal grant for Joseph Anthony and meeting Joseph's daughter, Elizabeth, married her. She was a young Quaker minister. Both her father and the church were displeased with her early marriage. However it proved to be a happy marriage. In 1764, she is said to have been the minister of Goose Creek Meeting and her husband was the clerk of the Meeting. Campbell Chronicles, by Early, p. 365.

In 1768, William sold 170 acres of land adjoining Edward Bright, Col. James Calloway, James Johnson, and moved to St. Paul's Parish (later McDuffe, Co.) in 1769. His father, William Few, Sr., left a will Oct. 22, 1789-July 21, 1794. He mentions: Wife, Ann; Step daus.: Katherine Hunt, Namarita Hunt; Sons: Benjamin, William, Jr., Ignatius; Daus.: Hannah Howard, Elizabeth Andrews. Another son of William Few, Sr., was James Few, the first martyr of freedom. He was one of the leaders of the uprising of Alamance, N. C. After James was hung by the British royalists, the family moved to Ga.

1. Elizabeth Few, md. 1795, John William Devereus. She died in child birth, 1799, Columbia Co.
2. Mary Few died as an infant.

4. Ignatius Few, Jr., b. Apr. 11, 1790.

Ignatius Alphonso Few, Jr., son of Mary Candler and Ignatius Few, Sr., has a biographical sketch in Pastors of Mulberry, 1826-1964, by Bessie Lester Hart.

Macon's population in 1829 was nearly two thousand. Newtown was incorporated into Macon. There were three hundred inhabited houses, four banks, two weekly newspapers, three public schools and four religious denominations. The Methodist had completed their church and the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches were being built. Walnut Street was being rapidly developed by gentlemen with families. The offices of the three banks on this street were in the residences of the presidents. A new courthouse was built in 1828-29.

In the same year, 1829, the first boat propelled by steam on the Ocmulgee, named "North Carolina" arrived which marked a new era in the navigation of the Ocmulgee and the trade of Macon. Thirty or forty flat boats, previously propelled by poles, now transported seven hundred bags of cotton to Darien and returned with approximately eighty tons of freight. Pole boats to Savannah required three to four weeks for the trip. Now steamers could make the trip in far less time and a new field was opened for capital and enterprise.

There came to Macon at this time a man who kept quick step with the prospering town and did as much for it as any of its people. Ignatius Alphonso Few, son of Ignatius and Mary Candler Few, was born on a plantation near Augusta, Ga, on April 11, 1789. His father was a captain in the Revolutionary Army and afterwards a successful planter and merchant. Ignatius, Jr., was educated in New York under the supervision of his uncle and also studied at Princeton. When he returned to Georgia he studied law a short time, but after his marriage in 1811 to Selina Carr he retired to an extensive farm. He led a life of leisure until business disintegrated; he returned to Augusta in 1823 to practice law. He contracted tuberculosis in 1824 and suffered from this malady the rest of his life.

Ignatius Few is the rare exception in the pattern of life that the pastors of Mulberry exemplify. He is the only man in our sketches who was an avowed skeptic in religious matters. His illness opened his mind and heart to God. In 1826 or 1827 he was converted and in 1828 he became a minister and preached in Savannah, Columbus, and Macon until his retirement in 1845.

He was a pioneer in the movement of education within the direction of the Methodist Church. He found little sympathy with his proposal for a Methodist College (1832), but was able to institute a secondary school under Methodist control in which the students supported themselves by working on a farm. In 1837 this school was chartered under the name of Emory and Ignatius Few named president. Financial problems were aggravated by nonpayment of most of the $100,000 pledged. Because of continuing ill health, he resigned in 1839. However, in 1845, he attended the first Conference of the Methodist Church South in Louisville, Ky., and is credited with drawing up the official report on the division of the Methodist Church. His death came peacefully on November 28, 1845 in Athens, Georgia.

He came to Mulberry in the second year of his ministry. Membership in the church this year comprised one hundred and twenty whites and thirty-six negroes. Few's keen interest in education led to his organization of the first Sunday School among Methodists in Macon in the spring of 1829.

Francis Asbury had established the first Sunday School in the new world in 1786 at the home of Thomas Crenshaw in Hanover County, Virginia.

Ignatius Few was a man of rare culture, lofty intellect, and deep piety. He served Mulberry again in 1834 but ill health hindered his ministry, and the church at this time did not advance. But it is not the standstill in the church that is remembered, rather his great contribution in organizing the first Sunday School and his eloquent sermons.

Shelby, b. 1830, Coweta Co., Ga., d. 1896, Mt. Vernon, Texas. Nancy was the 4th child of Louisa Candler and Cader Atkins Parker. James Warren the son of Moses Shelby, b. 1795 (md. Harriett Hagler, b. 1800), the son of John Shelby, son of Moses Shelby, son of Evan Dhua Shelby of Wales. Moses and Harriett, born in N. C., lived in Washington Co., Ga., before moving to Coweta Co., Ga., where James Warren was born, then moved to Barbour Co.,

James Warren was a Primitive Baptist minister, never ordained; he could not subscribe to "Predestination." He is said to have hired a substitute to fight in the Civil War. The last year of the war he went to Mobile to help make salt for the soldiers. He moved in 1869 to Titus Co., Texas, and settled two miles from Mt. Vernon on the Winnsboro Road. The family lived well; Nancy was always refined, dignified, immaculate, neighbors called her "Aunt Shelby." She survived her husband 21 yrs. Her parents spent their last days with her. James Warren said of her, "There are just two times when I want Nancy home - when I'm there and when I'm not home." The Shelbys had a large home at the end of "Shelby Lane." As the children grew and married, they built along the "Lane." (List of children from Bible record

Penelope Anthony, d. 1920, md. as the 2nd. wife of James Johnson, d. Aug. 10, 1824, son of John Johnson and Elizabeth Ellyson.

The Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting of Friends, p. 147, states that James Johnson, son of John of Amelia County and Mildred Moorman of Louisa Co., dau. of Thomas Moorman, took each other in marriage Nov. 12, 1758, at Friends Meeting house in public meeting.

James Johnson and wife, Mildred, and children, Moorman and Christopher, received certificate from Cedar Creek Monthly Meeting in Caroline Co., dated Sept. 8, 1764. (wife died before certificate came to hand.)

June 28, 1766, James Johnson disowned for marrying out of unity (to Penelope Anthony). Jan. 28, 1775, James Johnson condemned his marriage out of unity, and was reinstated in Friends society. Feb. 25, 1775, James Johnson granted certificate to Bedford Monthly Meeting. There he left his two sons by Mildred Moorman and his 2nd. wife, Penelope Anthony, with Micajah Moorman, brother of Mildred, while he served in the Revolutionary War. It is not known how long Penelope and her children remained there, but she and her children moved to Hanover Co., Moorman and Christopher remained with their uncle and married his daughters, Elizabeth and Millie.

April 16, 1781, James Johnson and Penelope and her children moved from Cedar Creek, Hanover Co., to South River Meeting, Campbell Co. July 4, 1795, Goose Creek Meeting (near Bedford) reports that James Johnson and wife Penelope and children, Elizabeth, Sarah, John, Joseph, James H., Judith, and Mary received on certificate from South River Monthly Meeting, dated May 9, 1795.

James and Penelope Johnson and their children moved to Ohio in 1805 where James bought 400 acres of land on Lee's Creek, Highland Co., where he erected a double log house and a little later a frame house, and kept a tavern. Several relatives and others built cabins near by his house and in 1813 he planned the village of Leesburg, which he laid out in 1814. Besides founding the town, he took an active part in public affairs in the community and was a leader in Friends Meetings. In Ohio he was called "Governor" James. Children:
